Description about projects:

1. This document is a sample dataset listing various product categories across different regions and organization types, with associated IDs, ratings, and performance/usage metrics. It appears structured for data analysis, reporting, or visualization tasks.
2. This document provides tabular data of different product categories across regions and organization types, including IDs, ratings, and related numeric metrics for analysis.
3. This Excel project includes hotel booking data with guest details, cancellations, and stay information. It uses a pivot table to analyze bookings by guest type and hotel type, and a dashboard sheet is prepared for visualization.
